WATER GARDEN

An architectural rendering of a modern residential development. In the background, several multi-story apartment buildings with light-colored facades and large glass windows are visible. The foreground is dominated by a lush green courtyard. In the center, a man and a woman are sitting in large, rounded, light-colored armchairs, facing each other. Between them is a low, circular concrete table with a bottle and glasses on it. To the left, a group of people are sitting on wooden picnic tables. Further back, more people are seen walking or sitting on the grass. The courtyard is bordered by low concrete walls and is filled with various trees, including palm trees and leafy green trees. The sky is a clear, light blue, suggesting a bright, sunny day. The overall atmosphere is one of a modern, comfortable, and green living environment.
